Greenfoot Game that Teaches Recursion to CS0 students

Karen Villaverde
Computer Science Department
New Mexico State University

In this talk we will show an action-puzzle game that teaches recursion to CS0 students. The game was built using the Greenfoot game engine. The game has finished the first iteration of game design and development. A game play video will be shown. Comments, suggestions, improvements from the audience are greatly appreciated.